4. Ranking Criteria

4.1 Ranking Criteria

Athletes who finish in the top 25% at CNZ Open Championships or top 40% at CNZ Youth National Championships and/or who have qualified through 3.2.2 or 3.4.2.1 will be ranked using the criteria in the following Table:

Table 2 – CNZ Ranking Criteria

Performance category	Points
A. IFSC results (most recent)	45
B. National Championship results (current season)	20
C. Selection Camp results	15
D. Pre-Nominated Events	12
E. Elite performance characteristics	8
TOTAL	100

Performance categories are as follows:

4.2 - A. IFSC Results

Points in this category are based on results from most recent IFSC season for Open competitors and the most recent YWCH for Youth Competitors. Points are the sum of best 2 results + 'Consistency Bonus' for Open World Cups/Champs, or over multiple disciplines for YWCH.

4.2.1 Points per discipline are awarded according to the following Table:

Table 3 – IFSC Points for CNZ Ranking Criteria

Result	Points	Consistency Bonus
Top 5	18	9
Top 20	17	7
Semi-final	14	5
Top 30% of field	12	4
Top 50% of field	10	3
Top 75% of field	8	2

4.2.2 Consistency Bonus

Points are applied at the level where 2 or more results have been achieved even if an athlete has 1 result at a higher level.

Example: Athlete A has 1 x Top 5 result and 2 x Top 20 results

Top 2 results (18 for Top 5 + 17 for Top 20) + Consistency Bonus (7 for 2 x Top 20)= 42

Maximum points for this category = 45.

4.3 - B. National Championship Results

4.3.1 Points in this category are based on the final placings ('results') from CNZ National Championship events according to the following Table:

Table 4 – National Points for Ranking Criteria

Result	Points	Result	Points
1st	20	5th	8
2nd	18	6th	7
3rd	15	7th	6
4th	12	8th	4
9th - 15th	2	16th - 20th	1

Maximum number of points in this category = 20

4.3.2 Competition Categories (Youth D, C etc) are not 'split' according to their two age groups (1st or 2nd year of category). The placings apply to each category as a whole.

4.4 - C. Selection Camp Results

All athletes selected for all Squads are eligible to attend CNZ National Team Selection Camp

Selection camp description in appendix

4.4.1 Points in this category are based on cumulative rank from all competition simulations at Selection Camp according to the following Table:

Table 5 – Team Selection Camp Points for Ranking Criteria

If these events are going to be used, then a minimum of 3 month’s notice will be given on the CNZ website and a formula table will be applied to this notice.

4.5.2 Maximum points for this category = 12

4.6 – E. Elite Performance Characteristics

5. Selection Committee

5.1 The role of the CNZ Selection Committee is to select the National team based primarily on the points allocation systems in this policy. Selection Committee also reviews cases for discretionary selection, assesses appeals from athletes (Section 6), reviews cases for exemption (Section 7) and reviews cases for deselection/dismissal (Section 8)

5.2 The members of the Selection Committee are the New Zealand National Coach and two delegated members appointed by the CNZ Management Committee.

5.3 A CNZ Selection Convener will attend all Selection Committee meetings to take minutes and ensure they are run in a fair and unbiased way according to this Policy. The CNZ Selection Convener reports back to CNZ Management Committee.

5.4 Selection Committee and Convener are appointed by the CNZ Management Committee at the first meeting of that committee after the CNZ AGM.

5.5 Term of appointment is 12 months.

6. Appeals

6.1 Appeals against non-selection of athletes can, in the first instance, be lodged in writing to the CNZ Management Committee. Appeals must be submitted within 21 days of the public release of teams.

6.2 If the appellant is dissatisfied with the outcome of the initial appeal a further appeal can be lodged with the New Zealand Sports Tribunal. This appeal must be submitted within 21 days of CNZ Management Committee appeal decision.

7. Exemptions

7.1 Team exemptions

Youth Squad members who are also selected to the National Squad (Opens) may apply to the Selection Committee requesting exemption from Youth National Championships and/or the Youth Selection Camp. Exemption will be granted at the discretion of the Selection Committee and only if the athlete can show developmental justification for missing the event in question (e.g. event conflicts with World Cups, proximity to next World Cup will create travel logistics detrimental to performance, conflicts with another training or development opportunity that the athlete can show has more potential benefit, etc)

7.1.1 Athletes sitting school exams or other important education requirements may seek exemption from CNZ requirements such as attending selection events and training camps on application to the Selection Committee.

7.1.2 Event exemption requests must be made in writing to the Selection Committee no later than 1 month prior to the date of the event in question. Late event exemption requests will not be considered.

7.2 Injury Exemptions

Athletes in the YWCH team may apply to the Selection Committee requesting an injury exemption from National Championships or Selection Camps. Injury Exemption requests must be accompanied by supporting documentation from a Sport Medical professional. Athletes who have been granted Injury Exemption may be selected to the YWCH after consideration of such factors as: nature of injury, prognosis for recovery and other medical team recommendations, and/or results in other elite performance categories (Table 6).

7.2.1 Injury Exemption requests can be made at any time and must be accompanied by Sport Medical documentation including: date of injury, diagnosis, prognosis and recovery plan. The Selection Committee may request other documentation. Injury Exemption requests without minimum Sport Medical documentation will not be considered.

8. Selection Review and Dismissal

8.1 CNZ Selection Committee reserves the right to reassess the selection of athletes in cases where:

8.1.1 Athletes have conducted themselves in a manner which is inappropriate and/or may negatively affect the reputation of CNZ.

8.1.2 Injury may limit performance in the events the athlete was selected for.

8.1.3 A significant decrease in athlete effort, training and performance is observed by the National/Youth Coach. In this situation, the athlete will be provided with feedback and an opportunity to resolve any issue prior to reassessment of selection. Procedure is as follows: In the first instance the National/Youth Coach will speak to the athlete, advise them of the concerns, and athlete and coach will mutually agree on a sufficient period of time to allow the athlete to remedy the concerns. If the problems persist, the National/Youth Coach will consult with the Selection Committee to reach a decision on the dismissal of the athlete from the training program and deselection from the team.

8.1.4 Athlete misses National events without prior discussion with and approval from CNZ Team Management.

8.1.5 Athlete misses deposit deadlines for payments

8.1.6 Athlete misses training camps without prior discussion with and approval from CNZ Team Management.

8.1.7 Athlete breaches any other clause of the Athlete Agreement

8.2 Athlete eligibility for the National Teams (including Training Programme) will be reviewed at the following times during each season:

- 1) Feb 1st following the conclusion of the previous World Cup Season and the start of the CNZ season
- 2) 2 weeks following each CNZ National Championships event relevant to the competitor's age/grade.

8.3 Dismissal and Sanctions

8.3.1 Athletes dismissed on any of the cases instanced in 8.1 may be eligible for a refund of monies already paid to CNZ in relation to any events they were planning to attend

8.3.2 Athletes considered by CNZ Team Management and/or CNZ Selection Committee to be in serious breach of code of conduct and athlete agreement may be dismissed from any of the NZ Squads and, if appropriate, sent home from international events. Dismissal in this instance will be reviewed by CNZ Management Committee and appropriate sanctions handed down to the athlete.

9. Confidentiality

9.1 A code of confidentiality applies to matters relating to selection and high performance strategies. Any CNZ Team athlete or CNZ Team Official who breaches matters held to be confidential may at the discretion of the CNZ Management Committee be removed from the National Team.

Appendix: FAQs

- Opens Squads – in the first few years we will have very few athletes in the National Squad right? Nearly all of them will be in the Development Squad. Why can't we make it so the top 5 say men and women from rankings are selected straight to the National Squad?

Yes. We are not anticipating for very many athletes to be gaining automatic selection into the National Squad for the first few years. If they do it will be because of outstanding performances at World Cups or World Championship events, then deservedly so. Athletes will be selected to National Squad by getting to be the top ranked athletes in the Development squad. The bulk of the Open competitors will first be selected into the National Development Squad (NDS), then move into the National squad from there. This is partly so that the athletes that end up going to IFSC events are not just selected straight from one competition. There is no overall assessment of the climber by being selected just from one competition. Secondly, the NDS is a stepping stone to going to IFSC events. The climbers making the NDS will have a chance to develop their talents in a more controlled environment and gain points towards going to the IFSC events over a bigger range of criteria. One of those will be at the selection camp.

- Selection Camp – so what exactly is a selection camp? Where will it be held? More than one per year? Will I have to attend?

The selection camp will be on the CNZ calendar as part of the competition calendar. It is not compulsory to attend, but if you are in either the NDS or the Youth Talent Squad (YTS) then you may need the points from the camp to gain enough points to move you up to the next level. This may be the difference between going to an IFSC event or not.

The selection camp will be run over two days and could possibly be run in more than one facility. The emergence of specialist climbing gyms in NZ now means that we could utilise different facilities for different disciplines. The format would roughly be that there would be a day of learning on the first day. Along the lines of learning movement, mental coaching, prehab, rehab, safety..... Then in the second day the athletes would be put into a high stress competition scenario run by CNZ judges and setters. The points from this comp would be used for selection points along with points from the other criteria. The end of the camp would have time for reflection and learning.

- National Champs – do I really have to attend all these events? It doesn't say so in the eligibility list.

National Championship events are the competitions where you are selected or not to make it into the NDS or YTS. (Top 25% in Open and Top 40% in Youth) If you have automatic selection to the National Squad or the Youth National Squad through outstanding performances in the previous season, then you may choose to miss these events, but in general this is where the bulk of your points will come from to make it into teams. It would only be in exceptional circumstances where you would choose not to go to these events if you were on a pathway to IFSC events.

- Youth – what's the reason for not splitting the categories? Won't the younger climbers in each category be disadvantaged?

The categories are not split at the IFSC events. The selectors went through a lot of data over a few years to see if there was a difference in selection if the categories were split into years. It actually worked out that in all but one case that the team would be stronger and no disadvantage to ages if the categories were not split. In the one instance where it did matter, the points were so close that the selectors would be able to justify discretionary selection of that climber anyway.

- If I'm selected for Lead (for example) but not Bouldering can I still get in the boulder team by crushing it at selection camp?

Yes absolutely. That is one of the points of this policy is that if you are sick or injured at a key event then you have other ways to make up the numbers you need to get into the team. Using this example, if you were to get into the development squad for lead, then once you are in you would accumulate points for both disciplines. This means that you have the top athletes still being able to rise up with accumulated points. This enables CNZ to be able to select the strongest team.

- Say I'm a youth climber over 16 years old and I only go to the Open champs. Do my points from these comps go towards selection for the Youth Talent Squad?

If you are already part of the National Squad and still a youth competitor, then you are automatically in the Youth Squad, but this would be very rare. In most cases you would need to compete in your age group to gain points to make the Youth Squad. There is a clause for discretionary selection but this would need to have very clear written documentation from someone like a medical professional to be accepted for this. In general your points only apply to the division you are climbing in, so No, your points from Open Champs do not go towards Youth team spots.

- These extra events that I can get points at – it says 3 months notice so that pretty much rules out 2019 doesn't it?

The extra selection events are there to get a better understanding of how an athlete copes in high pressure situations like competitions. In a year when there is no Oceania event, the selection committee would like to use other competitions to gauge how well the athlete copes with this stress. Obviously though, the comps need to be at a certain level and have CNZ judges at least double checking the scoring to ensure that the comps are run fairly. If, for example, a NIBS comp was to be used for this then CNZ would need to supply judges to double check the 'self scoring' system that is currently used. Whatever comp(s) was going to be used in lieu of Oceans, then it would need to have at least 3 months notice given so that the athletes could prepare and get themselves to that comp. When posting an extra comp CNZ would also post the way that points would be allocated for the comp so it is all posted online well in advance. 2019 may not be ruled out but it may mean that there was an extra event at the later end of the season. In the first year of the new policy this extra comp could potentially be ruled out.

- What's the story with these elite performance criteria? Does that mean I'll have to pay extra to get all these things from professionals so I can get the points?

The Elite performance Criteria are there to create a 'safety net' around the athletes. Everyone at top level is not just competing by themselves, they are part of a team of professionals who encourage and support the athlete, and far more importantly, keep them safe. If athletes have this safety net around them, statistics say that they are far more likely to stay in the sport longer. In NZ if we want to start to do really well on the world stage, then we need to start creating longevity in the sport. This group of professionals surrounding the athletes goes a long way to encourage this.

Most of these elite performance characteristics do not need to be paid for. Most athletes nowadays have access to very good resources to tell them how to do a periodised training plan. There are many online videos of movement or strength based activities such as Quadrupedal movement. Most athletes who get injured every now and then or get niggles will use a physio for treatment. There are many universities around the country who offer mental coaching for athletes for free. Having a good nutrition plan is essential for an elite athlete, this can be done through online learning. Having a way to identify weaknesses or performance gaps is an integral part of any athletes training, this requires some honest self reflection. All these things can be done without paying someone, they do however take time and commitment. This is something that elite athletes need to learn anyway so is not such a bad thing.

So no, you don't necessarily have to pay anyone to tick this list off.
